Materials

Wood Windows

Offering aesthetic appeal, many customization options, and design versatility, wood is a premium choice that can be used on both the interior and exterior of a window. This is a popular choice among New England homeowners seeking to preserve the natural and traditional beauty of their home. When homeowners of a historic home are looking to update their windows, often times, their local historic commission requires them to replace them with modern wood windows that closely mirror the existing styles.

Materials

Fiberglass Windows

Highly durable, strong as steel, and extremely reliable, fiberglass has been shown to have a 38% longer useful life expectancy than vinyl. As one of the first premium composite materials on the market, fiberglass is a great choice for those looking for aesthetic appeal as well as top durability.

Materials

Vinyl Windows

Vinyl-framed windows are the most economical window on the market. They are also relatively lightweight and easy to install. Because they are quick and easy to install, the cost of installing vinyl windows is usually low compared to other alternatives.

The other thing homeowners must bear in mind is that not all vinyl windows are created equal. Some are better than others and it can be difficult for the novice to tell the difference. That's one reason it is strongly recommended that homeowners consult with a window professional like United Home Experts before making any final decisions.

Case Study

Window Replacement in Sherborn, Mass.

This is a great example of some of the work we can do. After we tore out the existing windows, we replaced them with new Marvin Ultimate windows.

Among the windows that we installed for them are casement windows, double casement, triple casement, and quadruple casement windows! The owners also chose to have a stain-grade pine interior color for the windows and an evergreen color for the exterior.

Considerations

Energy Efficiency

Heat gain and heat loss through windows are responsible for 25%–30% of residential heating and cooling energy use. Having energy-efficient windows has become increasingly important to homeowners as it can help reduce utility bills, decrease your environmental impact, and make your home a more comfortable place. There are a variety of window options that can help you achieve long-term performance and energy cost savings no matter where you live.

Case Study

Replacement Windows in Cambridge, Mass.

For this replacement project, we tore out and installed 14 windows and 2 doors at this beautiful Cambridge home.

The homeowners selected new Marvin Ultimate windows and customized Marvin Ultimate Multi-Slide Doors with a Mahogany colored interior and a Stone White colored exterior. We not only love the efficiency this brings to the home, but how much brighter and richer the windows and doors made their home.

“Hardworking, neat, and polite. The biggest quality is that they are competent; not just the foreman, but every person in the crew! We don't see that much these days. The attention to detail and the amount of prep work done was outstanding. Thanks!!

– Amy & Al T. Holden, MA

“Everyone was very hardworking. I was very satisfied with the final project. Any little question or request was taken care of right away.

– Cheryl F. Abington, MA

“I was given an accurate estimate at the start of the project and a reasonable price for additional work that was needed. An extremely hardworking crew did a great job residing our antique cape despite the heat, humidity, and rain. A great job overall!!!!

– Leonard D. Rutland, MA

“Your men were unfailingly polite. There were a few minor wrinkles, as to be expected. They were always pounced upon and corrected perfectly. We would, and will, recommend both the product and your enterprise to all who will listen.
